Chapter 1 by Story Wars

1 The night was cold it was snowy I had just got of work I took the night shift at my work. I was walking home when I saw a man in the street kind of shuffling toward me. I get a little scared of people on the street so I started to walk faster and the man started a full out sprint so I started running!

2 The man tried to tackle me but I was able to run away luckily my house was only a block away and it took a while for the man to catch up. I don't know what his problem was but I did not want to mess with him or call the cops because then I would have to fill out a lot of paperwork and he might have a bigger urge to kill me or do something to me so I just went home.

the man in the street just staring at our house I Tried to call the police but the power line was cut and there was a knock on the door.

4 I should have told my wife what happened but it was to late she had unlocked the door and the man was right there. My wife said he could come in which I did not agree with it but it was the olden days where you could trust everyone.

5As he came in he looked around and it seemed as if he were looking for something. He started to tell my wife that he was new in the neighborhood and that he wanted to know his neighbors better. Soon enough he left but he didn't really leave he was in our backyard staring at the house like a hawk stalking it's prey.

6 I was about to tell my wife but she was watching real housewives of LA when I went to tell her but she acted like she was listening but I know she wasn't. When I went to the living room and looked out the window and he was not there.

7 I wondered where he was. Soon me and my wife went to bed and i kept hearing noises from outside so I told my wife about the the thing that happened earlier that evening, and she freaked out and without hesitation she called the police. When the police came they said there was nothing strange or suspicious. So we let it go but that was a mistake, the next day he was in our living room waiting for us. So we dashed upstairs out the window and sprinted yelling for help. I looked back once and the man was still there. We contacted the police again and they once again said there was nothing strange or suspicious. I was still suspicious.

8 It has been two days since that night but I was still scared my wife thought I had got over it but I was still a little suspicious. I went to get the grill from the basement when I saw something shining in the dark back corner...

9 As I slowly crept over to it my wife called for me to hurry up so I just got the grill and ignore it. I grilled some good steaks and we went into our room to watch a movie but I forgot what's a movie without popcorn. I tried to open the door but it was locked. At first I thought it was jammed but then I started to freak out. I told my wife and she thought I was joking, but then the house was on fire, glass on the ground it must have been a molotov

Chapter 2 by Kamurin Kizutsukemasu

10 I escaped the bedroom with my wife tailing me, we had to get out. We were able to escape, but no longer than ten seconds later, The Man was there head down. Like what you would see at a horror movie, he started walking, with each step walking faster. We knew we had to run, my wife tugged on me and started to pull me away. I was ready to run when... The Man sprinted towards us, then within a seconds time. A smooch on the lips. It was my ex-boyfriend.

11 My wife wondered why I was enjoying myself with that kiss. It was because I was really gay, but I just couldn't except it. I hated my fake feelings, and my real feelings. I love sausages but I hate that both Identity's. I need a transgender person. I'm bi. I told her that I wanted to tell her for a while, but... I didn't want to really, I told her. Her eyes filled with joy. She then pulled down her pants and revealed a nice old. Chicken fried sausage out of her secret pocket. She then said there's more where that I came from. Then ran towards our shed. There was a bed inside our

shed I was with a trans

12 The man had watched the whole thing. His eyes were full of merciful hatred, he was full-tilt ready to go full butcher. He's gonna take my sausages away.

Chapter 3 by Kamurin Kizutsukemasu

13 I didn't want to go back to my old lifestyle, it was horrible being called a gay. It was horrible, but satisfying I was different. It was nice being different. The Man and I, are getting back together. It was terrifying. Going back to the torment, but awesome.

14 I had to tell my wife what happened and why, It was hard for me. It all happened so fast for her. She was in the middle of it all. But she told me, she was looking for a new man. She already set up a date. I was depressed, but didn't care. At the same time.

15 She was going to reject me, get a divorce. It didn't matter I said, hiding my true feelings. I was mad at her, she was going to eject me right when I left for work. I was sad.
